

Editorial

The current issue includes a call for articles for a special issue on Contemporary perspectives on People-Nature Reconciliation. The special issue will be edited by guest editor Erica von Essen, Swedish University of Agricultural Sciences, and co-editor Hans Peter Hansen, Aarhus University. We look forward to receive abstracts contributing to the debate, explore challenges, and unfold perspectives on reconciliation of people and nature.

In 2016 the editors of TES have experienced unforeseen delays in the release of the two annual issues and for the first time neither the editors nor reviewers or authors have been able to meet the deadlines set for the review procedure. A number of articles are in the pipeline and we hope to launch two issues including the special issue in the coming year.
